

HONORS COLLEGE COURSES SPRING 2022

CRN	COURSE	CREDIT	COURSE TITLE	TIME	INSTRUCTOR
Freshmen Bible Courses:
16360	BNEW 1030.H1	2	(H) Faith & Mission of the Church	8:00-8:50 Daily	Sandlin
16361	BNEW 1030.H2	2	(H) Faith & Mission of the Church	11:00-11:50 Daily	Adair
16362	BNEW 1030.H3	2	(H) Faith & Mission of the Church	1:00-1:50 Daily	Adair
17560	BNEW 1030.H4	2	(H) Faith & Mission of the Church	2:00-2:50 Daily	Sandlin
Sophomore Bible Courses:
16385	BOLD 2030.H1	2	(H) Wisdom and Prophets	11:00-11:50 MWF	Youngblood
16386	BOLD 2030.H2	2	(H) Wisdom and Prophets	2:00-2:50 MWF	Youngblood
Upper level Bible Courses:
16216	HNRS 4590.01(jr/sr)	3	Seminar in Ethics	10:00-11:15 TR	Garner/Sandlin
18363	PHIL 3020.H1	3	(H)Philosophy of Religion	10:00-11:15 TR	Martin
Liberal Arts and Major-specific Honors Courses:
16006	COMM 1010H.H1*	3	(H)Archaeology of Communication	11:00-11:50 MWF	Garner
16007	COMM 1010.H1	3	(H) Communication Principles	1:00-2:15 TR	Miller
15859	ENG 2010.H1	3	(H) World Lit 1	2:00-2:50 MWF	Hunt
15596	HIST 2100.H1	3	(H) Western Civ since 1500	1:00-2:15 TR	Harris, J
15523	NURS 1000.H1	1	(H) Intro to Nursing	1:00-1:50 F	McCook, K.
15376	SPAN 2020.H1	3	(H) Intermediate Spanish II	2:00-2:50 MWF	Bond
15471	THEA 1010.H1	3	(H) Theatre Appreciation	2:00-2:50 MWF	Lynn, B.

*COMM 1010H.H1 (Archaeology of Communication) will fulfill the Principles of Communication (COMM 1010) liberal arts requirement. The $100.00 course fee covers all travel and meal expenses for the experiential trips.

Honors Scholars have priority enrollment for the following classes. Honors Students can register as space permits.

16212	HNRS 2030.01	3	Human Situation I	10:00 – 11:15 TR	Hunt
17707	HNRS 2040.01	3	Human Situation II	3:00 – 5:30 M	Huff
16213	HNRS 2050.01	3	Human Situation III	2:30 – 3:45 TR	Foust

HNRS 2030 credit may apply to one of the following courses: ART 1010, ENG 2010/2020, HIST 2100/2110, MUS 1010, or THEA 1010.

HNRS 2040 credit may apply to one of the following courses: PSY 2010, ECON 2010, POLS 1787, SOC 2030 or 3 credits of Global Perspective. May not be repeated for credit.

HNRS 2050 credit may be applied to one of the following liberal arts courses: BIOL 1100, MATH 1200, PHS 1010, 1020, 1030, 1050, or 1060.

Consult your academic advisor to determine how to best apply HNRS course credits to a specific degree plan.

Honors Students are enrolled members of the Honors College. (Enrollment is open to all incoming students who qualify by ACT/SAT score or currently enrolled students who earn a minimum Harding gpa of 3.25. See www.harding.edu/honors for enrollment information).

Honors Scholars are selected from incoming freshmen who are National Merit Finalists, Trustee Award recipients, or from the pool of applicants scoring 31 or higher on the ACT (sum score of 1420 or higher on the SAT Based Reading & Writing + Math).

This 3 credit course will satisfy the semester Bible class requirement.

In the honors sections of Philosophy of Religion in the spring, there will be 4 primary areas of study:

- 1. What is the relationship between God's foreknowledge and human freedom? If God knows everything we're going to do tomorrow, can we still be free in regards to our actions tomorrow? Our reading for this portion of the class will be a book called Divine Foreknowledge: Four Views.*
- 2. What is the relationship between God and morality? There is a divide in Christian ethics between divine command theorists and natural law theorists. Our reading for this portion of the class will be chapters and articles that I will supply to the student.*
- 3. Historically, what has been the effect of religion on ethical thinking? In discussing this, we'll discuss the intellectual tradition that develops the moral psychology of virtues and vices.*
- 4. Time permitting, and if there is class interest, we study some foundational apologetics.*

HNRS 4590.01 (Seminar in Ethics)

Dr. Mac Sandlin, College of Bible
Dr. Patrick Garner, Department of Communication

This 3 credit course will satisfy the semester Bible class requirement. Designed for juniors and seniors.

Honors 4590 is a seminar on ethics. Two books serve as the focal point of the class: Justice by Michael Sandel and Old Testament Ethics for the People of God by Wright. Sandel discusses types of ethical perspective ranging from utilitarianism to virtue ethics. Wright examines the ethics of the Old Testament topically with ideas ranging from ecology, economics, politics and law. Integral to the class are the specific contemporary ethical questions posed in the class. We examine such questions as the resurrection of extinct species through genetic technology, reproductive technology, physician assisted suicide, medicalization and/or legalization of drugs, animal rights, sentient robots, privacy rights and economic justice.

COMM 1010H.01 (Archaeology of Communication)

Dr. Patrick Garner, Department of Communication

This course will fulfill the COMM 1010 Principles of Communication liberal arts requirement. The $100.00 course fee covers all travel and meal expenses for experiential trips.

Instead of following the typical teaching approach, we will "deconstruct" and explore communication from a different perspective, the perspective of the investigative archaeologist. We will dig down into human behavior of the person to discover the factors that are motivating and governing their communication behavior. Then we will move on from inner behavior and motivations to the next level of behaviors, both verbal and nonverbal, that we usually pay so much attention to. Group discussion and public speaking are tools which we use to analyze and share knowledge of human communication. The emphasis in this class is on dissecting the communication process from the inside of the person, and eventually examining verbal and nonverbal behaviors.

There is one absolutely unique facet to this class! To fully understand our analysis of communication, we must further our studies outside of the classroom. We will do extensive analysis of our communication environment on campus and off.

HNRS 2040.01 (Human Situation II)

Dr. James Huff, Honors Faculty Fellow

This course may apply to one of the following liberal arts requirements: PSY 2010, ECON 2010, POLS 1787, SOC 2030, or 3 credits of Global Perspective. Consult your academic advisor to determine how to best apply the course in your degree plan.

We will be doing a deep dive into the questions of identity--that is, the deeper meanings associated with the question "Who am I?" Come join us as we investigate the core concepts and processes that go along with making sense of our own narratives of identity. In this course, students will complete a small-scale project on identity as independent investigators as well as think through fundamental questions about their own identity narratives.